MAPPING OF LEVELS OF EDUCATION*

Stuart A. Sutton

This draft document from the U.S. Department of Education includes a summary (non-exhaustive) of the language used in various contexts (including language used in non-U.S. contexts) to express the notion of level of education/training of the target audience for a resource as that language is mapped to the Gateway to Educational Materials (GEM) controlled vocabulary for the GEM.Grade element. The GEM.Grade vocabulary is admittedly very granular in the U.S. K-12 arena and far less so in higher, vocational, and adult education. In Working Group listserv discussions, this aspect of an educational resource was deemed important to networked information discovery and retrieval. The document is submitted to the DC-Education Working Group as a working paper to assist it in thinking through how it should approach the expression of this aspect of the audience for a resource.
